

Study Space Problem Statement

Authors: Jerry Qiu

Problem Statement:

- College students on campus often struggle to find available study spaces during exam weeks. This problem occurs primarily in university libraries where limited seating and high demand make it difficult for students to focus and prepare. This issue could increase stress and a student's productivity in an already challenging time.

Who is experiencing the problem?

- Specifically, college students that are on campus.

What is the problem?

- The problem is that they struggle to find available study spaces during exam weeks

Where does the problem present itself?

- The problem presents itself in the university libraries

Why It Matters?

- This leads to decreased productivity and higher stress levels during critical academic periods